by; we must love our neighbors as ourselves, we must truly be brothers and sisters in Christ," he said.

Elder Petersen, a former newspaper editor, is a member of the Council of Twelve Apostles of the church, widely known as the Mormons.

He spoke at the third dedicatory ceremony at the temple, sheathed in white marble and equivalent in height to a 16-story building, in the Maryland countryside near the capital.

Ten separate ceremonies are being held, three of them on Tuesday and continuing through Friday and each attended by approximately 4,300 church members in good standing.

President Spencer W. Kimball, world leader of the church, delivered the keynote address Tuesday and is presiding at all the sessions. They are closed to outsiders, but church authorities are making public excerpts from each of the speeches.

Among the speakers at the first three sessions were three elders who are assistants to the Council of Twelve. Following is what they said, in part:

Elder Elroy L. Christensen: "Whenever the higher priesthood has been put upon the earth and the people have been worthy, the Lord has commanded that temples be built in His name and used for His divine purposes which provide the way to eternal life and exaltation . . .

"Later-day Saints consider a temple as a connecting link between earth and heaven—between mortal life and spirit life. It is where both the living and the dead may receive priceless blessings."

Elder Sterling W. Sill: "The Lord has said that governments were instituted by God for the benefit of man. It seems appropriate and particularly significant that this house of the Lord should stand here in the capital so close to the seat of government. Even before the church was restored, the nation was given the assignment to serve as the citadel of liberty with the divine mission to keep freedom, righteousness and human dignity alive in the world."

Elder O. Leslie Stone: "No sacrifice has been too great for the building of temples. This is true in the construction of this temple and will continue to be true as long as temples are built in this dispensation. Brigham Young prophesied that the day would come when we would have hundreds of temples. This prophecy will be fulfilled."

The Washington Temple is the church's 16th now in use.

Student officers make changes

Tuesday, the ASBYU Executive Council decided that would combine the Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior offices into a new office called Student Involvement.

Decision came after several special sessions and sometimes heated debates and many planning.

The council approved the motion which states, "The ASBYU Executive Council shall coordinate the activities and special interest groups."

It includes, but are not limited to, the Student and Women's Council, the New All campus clubs and organizations."

Wade Berrett pointed out that a candidate would be a freshman, a transfer student or a student registered in the university was could vote for the office.

Office merger

The merger of the Freshmen, Women's and Men's offices and I feel it will provide for a more efficient management," Berrett said.

The Executive Council has drawn up its suggestions for internal revision, the specific proposals will go to the student body.

The proposal was with the added revisions will be presented to the ASBYU Executive Council on Friday to accept or reject the proposals.

The constitution requires a two-thirds vote and at least 10 per cent of the student body must vote in favor of the proposal.

Main proponent

The president of Student Involvement, was the main proponent and maintained that the new office was the best way to handle the new office on the Executive Council.

The president of Organizations, said, "I'm not sure the new students having a vote and I don't know the purpose or programs of an organization."

The discussion a vote was taken on the motion to merge the offices in a newly organized office called Student Involvement.

The vote was taken. Wade obtained while the proposal. Soon after the vote, he had his mind and voted against the motion.

The proposal is better than the original one, the office without any election in the future," but we still have less of a say this way than we do now."

He said each proposal individually on the subject should be defeated.

Robinson said, "Being of the minority on the subject until the last minute to have the proposal, I now feel good about the result."

He said he is not treated in a special class like the rest of us and he said, "The important thing will now have for it a defined responsibility."

Troops kill terrorists in Israel

BEIT SHEAN, Israel (AP)—Three Arab terrorists seized an apartment house in this border settlement Tuesday and killed at least three Israelis before the terrorists died in a gun battle with Israeli troops, authorities said.

The body of a fourth Israeli also was found in the 75-resident building.

An enraged mob of townspeople threw the guerrillas' bodies out a window and set fire to them screaming "Death to the terrorists!"

An Israeli mother of three was killed when the terrorists blasted into her second-story apartment before dawn, and a man and woman were shot in the back as they tried to escape down a stairway, authorities said.

The seventh body was at first reported as another slain Arab terrorist, but pathologists later established that this was a fourth Israeli victim, the military command said.

Details of the death were not known immediately.

Twenty residents of the four-story house were injured leaping from windows during the three-hour siege.

The terrorist raid on this town of 20,000 south of the Sea of Galilee and four miles from the Jordanian border was the fifth Arab attack on Israeli settlements since April. Fifty-seven Israelis have been killed and 120 wounded.

"They sprayed every doorway in the building with bullets from their Kalashnikovs and broke into a third-floor flat and killed Mrs. Bibas," said a survivor. Zohara Bibas, a 40-year-old mother of three, was the first victim.

When they kept firing and throwing grenades from the window.

Three hours later, Israeli soldiers raced up the stairway and gunned down the Arabs while border police fired from the streets.

Buses will run for Y students

By JOHN VAN DORN
Universe Staff Writer

Students traveling by bus over the Thanksgiving holiday should feel little or no effect from the nation-wide Greyhound bus strike which began Monday.

Local Greyhound authorities said arrangements have been made with other bus companies to take care of passengers until the strike is over.

"Students going home for the Thanksgiving break should have no problem leaving or returning to Provo," they said.

"Lewis Brothers' Stages have been arranged for to take care of a number of BYU students," said Dick Westwood, agent for Westwood Travel Service.

Westwood said they have made arrangements for at least one bus to Los Angeles and one to San Francisco. These buses will be for students only and have been arranged through the ASBYU offices.

"We have one bus to each of these cities now, and if more are necessary, they could be arranged for," said Westwood.

Local Greyhound authorities said they have been affected by the strike the same as Greyhound terminals around the country. "We presently have no buses going or coming from the Provo terminal."

Salt Lake City officials said they are presently without services also.

"Passengers will be transferred to other lines with as little delay as possible," the authorities said.

Greyhound's chartered buses are continuing to operate with union permission, and one union official said some charter buses may be operating for another week.

Negotiations between Greyhound and the Amalgamated Transit Union broke off an hour after the beginning of the strike at noon MST Monday.

No support for softer drug laws

The Ford administration has rejected a move to soften marijuana laws, a White House spokesman told Congress Tuesday.

Howard Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, said the administration is carefully watching laws adopted by several states including Oregon and New Mexico which try to discourage marijuana smoking with a fine but no criminal penalties.

Parent said he did not know whether negotiations would be resumed immediately.

He said company representatives were bargaining for 48 hours prior to the strike.

Union officials blamed the strike partly on disagreement over the length of a new contract and difficulty in bargaining as a nationwide unit.

Previous contracts had been negotiated separately for drivers on either side of the Mississippi River.

They said offices will remain open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to answer questions and to give out freight.

Salt Lake City officials said they are presently without services also.

"Passengers will be transferred to other lines with as little delay as possible," the authorities said.

Ford pledges food to Japan

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford mixed pacy with business Tuesday, donning a stiff morning coat to greet the emperor of Japan and then assuring government leaders they could count on a steady supply of food from the United States.

The President expressed understanding for Japan's "special sensitivities" about nuclear weapons, a key domestic issue, and tried to clear the way for purchases of choice American beef, now in abundant supply in the United States as farmers sell off cattle they can't afford to fatten up on expensive grain.

"Our paths are not always identical," Ford told Emperor Hirohito in a banquet toast, "but they all lead in the same direction—that of world peace and harmonious relations among mankind."

While a Japanese military band played "Hail to the Victors," a University of Michigan song, the onetime football star from Grand Rapids passed along a line of some 100 foreign diplomats, Henry A. Kissinger trailing behind him.

"It's nice to see you this morning," Ford said amiably.

Afterward, he and Hirohito drove off in a long, black Nissan limousine to the Imperial Palace. Crowds were kept back by police but some 2,000 selected spectators, most of them women, were allowed within reach so that Ford could shake a few hands.

Cheers rang out and small American and Japanese flags were waved in the spring-like breeze. In contrast to Monday, no demonstrations against Ford's visit were reported anywhere in the Tokyo area.

"I'm greatly honored to be the first American president to visit Japan," Ford told Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka as they sat down in the guest house later for the first in a series of policy talks.

"This is my first overseas trip. I think it is indicative of the importance I place on our relationship with Japan."

Reporting to newsmen on Ford's talk with Tanaka, Kissinger said the President assured Tanaka that Japan "could count on a stable level of agricultural supplies from the United States." This was a vital guarantee for the world's largest food producer after the Nixon administration last year abruptly halted exports of soybeans, a Japanese staple.

Regarding U.S. efforts to get the Japanese government to ease its ban on meat imports, Kissinger said: "That question was discussed. I don't want to speak for the Japanese government but my impression was that the President's point will be taken very seriously."

Kissinger said Ford was understanding about Japanese concern over nuclear weapons reportedly brought into Japanese ports by U.S. warships. But he implied the controversy remained unsettled by saying that the two sides agreed on further consultation between the secretary of state and Foreign Minister Toshio Kimura. He added that the 1960 security treaty between the two countries would be applied.

The treaty does not allow the United States to deploy or store nuclear arms in Japan without the government's permission. However, there have been reports, regularly denied by the Japanese, that the agreement allows U.S. ships bearing nuclear weapons to stop routinely at Japanese ports.

U.S. Steel shutdowns threatened after Dec. 1

While leaders of the United Mine Workers prepared to reopen contract negotiations Tuesday, U.S. Steel announced plans to shut down some plants if the miners are not back to work by Dec. 1.

Richard Allgire, assistant public relations supervisor at the Salt Lake office of the corporation, said the Geneva plant near Orem would not be affected that early. He declined to estimate just how long the plant could continue operations.

Less than 300 persons have been laid off at Geneva, Allgire said, with no more than that expected at present. U.S. Steel has laid off 13,700 employees throughout the entire corporation.

"We are reassessing the situation on a day-to-day basis," Allgire said.

Now receiving coal from the Ironstone storehouse, BYU Central Heating Plant is experiencing no problems, reported Jack Meredith, supervisor of the plant.

At national union headquarters, a three-day recess of the bargaining council of the union was called to observe the death of Samuel E. Littlefield, UMW district president for Alabama, who was killed Friday.

Deliberations reopen today.

Following approval by this council, the contract, which will provide a 40 per cent boost in wages and benefits over three years, will go before the membership. Ratification would then take eight to 10 days.

UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick said there was a 50-50 chance the council would approve the tentative agreement.

"The officers feel we have gotten the very best contract we can," he said. "The membership had a right to expect a large increase and I think it's in there."

It is expected that the 38-member bargaining council will recommend returning to the negotiating table to win some modifications in the contract, initiated with the industry last week.

Union sources indicated objections to the contract could be resolved with some revisions at the bargaining table and would not require a large-scale altering of the contract.

In order to cut the coal strike to three weeks, the contract would need to be wrapped up by this week end. Government economists have predicted a four-week coal mine shutdown could throw about 400,000 persons out of work.

The No. 2 steel producer, Bethlehem Steel Corp., has announced its first layoffs as a result of the strike. The Sparrows Point, Md., plant, where four coke batteries are presently being banded, has 175 employees off the job.

Up-ended truck blocks street

Traffic on State Street was held up for over an hour Tuesday when this cement truck from Standard Builders Supply in Provo turned over on the corner of Third Street and State Street. The driver, Norman Williams, was slightly injured. When a diesel tow truck failed to upright the cement-filled vehicle, workers attempted to cut a hole in the side of the truck and shovel the cement out. As rush hour traffic increased, the truck was righted with wrenches installed on the tow truck.

Arrington urges 'Joseph type life'

By ROGER BRADFORD
Universe Staff Writer

Follow the example of the Prophet Joseph Smith and enjoy life, was the counsel of Church Historian Leonard J. Arrington at Tuesday's devotional assembly.

Using diaries, letters and histories of the Prophet's contemporaries, Dr. Arrington portrayed Joseph Smith as a cheerful, sociable and faithful man and he counseled all to be the same.

"The atmosphere around Joseph was one of hope and buoyancy, of optimism and faith, of wholesome righteousness," Dr. Arrington said.

The prophet saw religion as being an expanding influence rather than a confining one, he explained. His own influence on others even tended to lift them up and make them rejoice.

Dr. Arrington quoted Brigham Young as saying, "I feel like shouting hallelujah, all the time, when I think that I ever knew Joseph Smith, the Prophet."

Joseph Smith enjoyed being with people and looking forward to continuing associations after this life, noted the historian. He had a "warm, affectionate and enjoyable personality" which ever made him pleasing company.

The churches of Joseph's day were strict, grave and fanatically pious, he explained. They partook of their Puritan heritage.

The Lord appeared to young Joseph, however, before they could "deadens his joyful exuberance and openness, his capacity for enjoying life," he said.

The prophet once challenged a long-face, pious minister to a wrestling match and playfully taunted him, according to an early journal.

He then assailed the minister's "super-abundant stock of sanctimoniousness" and warned him against "excessive piety and fanaticism."

Music, drama, boating, hiking and athletics were diversions, according to Dr. Arrington. He also enjoyed parties, dancing, debating and pranks.

"I went out with my little (son) Frederick to exercise myself by sliding on the ice," he read from Joseph's journal.

In spite of the prophet's native jovial temperament, however, he demanded strict obedience to God. "Iniquity of any kind cannot be sustained in the Church and it will not far where I am; for I am determined while I do lead the church to lead it right."

Dr. Arrington announced that the Church Historian's Office is directing the writing of a 16-volume history of the church which is scheduled for completion in 1977 or 1978.

"We also have under preparation a one-volume history of the church," he explained. "It is designed for use in classes in such secular universities as Harvard, the University of Texas and the University of California."

The Church Historian detailed the vigorous program of the two-year-old Historical Department of the Church to publish.

"Our story is rich, entertaining and meaningful," he assured, "and may I say as a professional historian that there are no skeletons in our closet."

He said that his study of "the most intimate and sacred documents in our archives

Leonard J. Arrington, church historian, shared excerpts of Joseph Smith's life from diaries and histories with the BYU faculty and student body during Tuesday's devotional.

"permits him to testify that 'the Lord has been and continues to be in the direction of this church.'"

Dr. Arrington was appointed Church Historian in January, 1972. He has written nine books and more than 100 articles dealing with the economics and history.

He also presently occupies the Lammie Harrison Redd, Jr., Chair of Western History at BYU.

Sunshine Express will perform today

Sunshine Express will be featured at a 10 a.m. concert today on the south stage of the Wilkinson Center Ballroom.

According to Diane Gelwix, church office student advisor, the event will be open to all students free of charge.

The group, composed of eight singers and five band members, will be making its second major appearance on campus this year, said Miss Gelwix.

They also appeared at the opening second annual "really neat" orientation concert earlier this fall, she said.

"We're really happy to have them play for us," she said. "Last year Sunshine Express did moon shows for university programs than any other group."

The concert, sponsored jointly by the culture and organizations offices, features a group from seven different states and one foreign nation.

Leading the group is its president Dave Jarvis from Salem, Ore.

Joining him as male singers for the group are Ron Crossman, Boise, Idaho; Curt Mathison, Great Falls, Mont.; and Chris Brady, Manassas, Colo.

The four girl singers include Donna Lyons, Phoenix, Ariz.; Elaine Anderson, Provo, Utah; Brenda Kay Sudweeks, Idaho; and Jeanette Mortensen, Provo.

Included in the band are Robin Luck, Roosevelt, Idaho who plays piano and organ, Nathan Johnson from Taiwan on the piano and Robert Avery as lead guitarist. Johnson will leave the group at the end of the year to accept a mission call for the Church, Miss Gelwix said.

Egypt buys new planes from West

WASHINGTON (AP) — France has started delivering Mirage fighter bombers to Egypt, a step regarded as the first hard evidence that Egypt is turning to France for new weapons in an effort to broaden its sources of arms.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said that they have detected no dramatic increase in the level of Soviet arms shipments to Syria. Israeli officials claimed last week that 20 Russian vessels were unloading weapons in the Syrian port of Latakia.

Egypt has received no new military equipment from the Soviet Union and only two shipments of Soviet spare parts since last April, administration sources say. The Soviet shipments arrived shortly before Egyptian President Anwar Sadat announced his country was ending its nearly 20-year dependence on Russia for arms.

However, U.S. analysts believe that a visit by Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev to Egypt in late January could result in at least a partial resumption of Russian arms deliveries to Egypt.

Even if this happens, U.S. experts say they expect Egypt to continue to buy new types of weapons from the West with the aid of money put up by oil-wealthy Arab states.

Reports that France would become a major supplier to Egypt began circulating in August after France ended its seven-year embargo on arms sales to Israel and neighboring Arab nations.

Cancellation of the embargo was prompted by Egypt's public acknowledgment that Libya had sent 26 French-supplied Mirages to Egypt secretly during the Mideast war last fall. Egypt since has returned the Mirages to Libya.

Administration sources say that French pilots have flown three Mirage V fighter bombers to Egypt, the first deliveries on an order expected to total 36 planes. The Mirages are being paid for by Saudi Arabia, the sources say.

Egypt has a group of pilots with experience in flying Libya's Mirages, so the newly-acquired planes can be expected to join front-line Egyptian air units with little or no delay.

While Egypt has been cut off from new Soviet arms, U.S. intelligence sources have reported a steady stream of arms from Russia to Syria since the October 1973 war.

A photography student from Ft. Collins, Colo., and a chemistry professor were named winners today in the first phase judging of the BYU Centennial Photo Contest.

Paul C. Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Fletcher of Ft. Collins and a senior majoring in Communications, was awarded a $100 cash prize for his entry in the contemporary division of the contest. Fletcher submitted a black and white photograph of BYU football quarterback Gary Schied seeing up to throw a pass in the Oct. 26 Arizona game.

Dr. Albert D. Swensen, professor of chemistry, was awarded a $100 cash prize for an entry in the historical division, a 1911 photograph of one of the first annual BYU-sponsored hikes of the slopes of Mt. Timpanogos. The picture was among a shoebox of old stereo negatives Dr. Swensen found earlier this year in his father's home in Provo. The pictures were originally taken by Dr. Swensen's father, John C. Swensen, who taught sociology and economics at BYU for 50 years.

The elder Swensen died in 1957. Fredrick, 84, started teaching at BYU in 1898, and was a prolific amateur photographer. The shoebox, containing about 500 stereo negatives, has been turned over to the Harold B. Lee Library, the prophet's library, at the university.

"I can remember spending hour after hour looking at Dad's pictures with a stereo viewer," said Dr. Swensen. "They are quite fascinating."

Among the pictures in the Swensen collection are classroom scenes, views of early Timpanogos hikes, the Heber Crepper, and prominent visitors to the campus between 1900 and 1915.

"For many years Dad was in charge of the Lyseum speakers," said Dr. Swensen. "They used to call it the 'Polysophical Society,' and it included such notables as Helen Keller, Dr. John Dewey and Will Durant."

Valuable Addition

Max C. Wilson, director of the contest, said the Swensen Collection is valuable addition to the BYU library, and the Centennial Committee plans to make use of it during the upcoming celebration.

Winners in the first section of the contest were announced by Dr. M. Dallas Burnett, chairman of the Communications Department. Dr. Burnett congratulated the winners as they were notified at Centennial headquarters Tuesday afternoon.

Fletcher is well-known on campus for his sports and nature photography in the Universe and Monday Magazines. He recently exhibited a selection of his photographs in the Harris Fine Arts Center. He plans to pursue a career in photojournalism.

Second Phase

The Communications Department and the Daily Universe, with the Centennial Committee, are sponsors of the contest.

Wilson said entries are being accepted now for the second phase of the contest, with a deadline of Dec. 31, 1974. The third phase will close Feb. 28, 1975.

There are three categories: —Contemporary —any pictures taken after Jan. 1, 1974. —Historical —photographs taken before Jan. 1, 1974.

—Color —transparencies, slides or color prints from either period.

Wilson said entries should relate to the BYU Centennial theme, and 100 years of growth of Church Education and BYU. They could cover just about any subject relating to campus, social, and academic life, including scenic, classroom scenes, sports or anything else pertaining to BYU.

Grand prizes in the contest, totaling $500 in each category, will be awarded in April, 1975, after judging the winners in the first three phases, Wilson said.

Panelists to discuss food crisis

The Agricultural Economics Department and ASBYU will sponsor a panel discussion Thursday at noon in the Varsity Theater.

According to an Agricultural Economics Department spokesman, the topic of discussion will be, "Are we running out of food?" This topic was chosen because of the World Food Conference recently held in Paris. The World Food Conference provided an opportunity for the nations of the world to meet on a peaceful basis and discuss the food problems facing the world.

The spokesman said the panel Thursday will discuss the solutions forwarded by the conference and explain some of the problems that may yet be encountered.

The spokesman said that after the panel discussion there will be a question and answer period.

The panel members will be made up of Professor G. Alvin Carpenter, of the Agricultural Economics Department, Professor Laren R. Robison, of the Agronomy and Horticulture Department and Clayton Christensen, a senior in economics.

Coed assaulted near Y campus

A BYU coed was assaulted and robbed Tuesday in the botanical gardens, according to BYU Security Chief Robert Kishlaw.

The victim, a freshman from Texas, was in the area at approximately 9 p.m. Friday when a male wearing a Levi jacket struck her over the head, scratched her arms and grabbed hold of her, said Kishlaw.

After kicking the attacker she was able to free herself and get away, Kishlaw said, but some money was stolen from her. Commenting on the incident Kishlaw said that although a suspect has been arrested in the Provo rape case, coeds should not relax precautionary measures. He urged continued attendance at the self-defense seminars sponsored by Provo City Police Department and BYU Security.

House committee divided on oil tax

WASHINGTON — A sharply divided House Ways and Means Committee finished its basic work Tuesday on a multibillion-dollar bill hiking taxes on oilmen while providing new tax relief for many average Americans.

Committee chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said he hoped to get a final draft of the complex legislation ready for a formal last vote of the panel later this week, perhaps Thursday. Mills said he would then try to take it to the full House for action on Dec. 4 and 5.

However, the measure faces a race with the clock and a certain fight on oil-state forces — especially in the Senate — during the final days of this congressional session.

Dollar steadies on Europe's markets

LONDON — The dollar steadied slightly on European exchanges Tuesday, but few experts expected any real improvement soon in the monetary fluctuations brought on by what many Europeans see as a deepening recession in the United States.

European doubts about the U.S. economy have recently sent the American dollar falling and gold soaring.

Dealers said the steadying of the dollar Tuesday was a reaction to its sharp slump Monday, when it was hit by the Mideast. They said they believed the American money had been oversold but most expected the reaction to be shortlived.

Senate committee to confirm Rocky WASHINGTON — Eight of the nine members of the Senate Rules Committee have indicated they intend to recommend that the Senate confirm Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

The committee ended its hearings Monday and is expected to vote by the end of the week.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said the panel will meet in executive session Wednesday to discuss its recommendation. The House Judiciary Committee begins its hearings on the nomination on Thursday.

Director talks up Y MBA Role-play drills train policemen

Provo police simulate felony car stops as part of an in-service training session required by Utah law. Officers receive 50 hours of training yearly.

"Put your hands up!" "Driver, throw your keys outside the car!" The scene is an in-service training session for the Provo City Police Department. Officers are in a role-play situation practicing felony car stops which were recently introduced by the FBI.

Utah law requires that police receive 40 hours of in-service training a year, according to cpl. George Pierpont, an instructor in the sessions.

The squad is divided into four groups and has a training session one Thursday a month, according to Police Chief Swen Nielsen. With this program every officer receives 50 hours of in-service training a year.

At the most recent session, after target practice in the new gun room at the police department and a lecture, the officers practiced pursuit driving and felony car stops at Ironton.

Officers then got a whiff of tear gas. They had received earlier a demonstration of gas masks. Tear gas was released into the warehouse. Officers then removed their masks long enough to experience the effects of the gas.

As the officers stumbled out of the building, one said, "It feels like somebody put cinnamon all over your face." Another said, "The masks don't leak," as a tear rolled off his nose.

Lt. Bud Gillman said simulated training is the best way officers can prepare for actual situations.

Program welcomes all opinions

The ASBYU Academics Office and the Honors Program are cosponsoring a new program called "The Exchange: A Forum of Student-Faculty Opinions."

According to Kris Cassidy of the Honors Program, the program's purpose is to explore meaningful questions in informal discussion groups. The Exchange is open to everyone and is held every Thursday at noon in 434 HBL.

"An exchange is initiated on a particular topic by persons who have experience or insights in a given field."

"Approximately one half of these exchanges are organized and directed by student speakers instead of faculty members," Cassidy said of the program's function.

Price rise seen in auto insurance

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a nationwide drop in the number of automobile accidents this year, auto insurance rates are almost sure to go up soon across the country, industry spokesmen and observers agree.

Industry spokesmen say inflation has sharply increased medical and repair costs this year, but auto insurance premiums actually have declined slightly.

The industry spokesmen said the lower accident rate after nationwide speed limits were lowered to 55 miles per hour did not save enough money to offset current loss payments.

Traffic deaths for the first nine months of this year declined about 20 per cent, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Bureau.

The National Safety Council said the total number of accidents also declined, but by a slightly lower percentage. Those figures will not be made public before the end of the year, the council said.

In addition to the higher costs of medical treatment and repairs, the slumping stock market has reduced the value of insurance companies' holdings and higher premiums are being sought to offset some of the market losses.

A spokesman for the Insurance Services Office, an industry-owned data gathering group located here, says, "We've already begun to file in all 50 states for a higher factor on auto insurance increased-limits tables." That means that the more insurance a customer has, the higher the increase being sought.

The Insurance Services Office customarily files for rate increases with various state authorities on behalf of its member insurance companies.

A spokesman for the office said the group has already advised member companies in eight states to seek general rate increases ranging from 3.1 per cent to 15 per cent.

The eight states — Montana, California, Idaho, Wyoming, Wisconsin, New Mexico, Georgia and Washington — are among 10 that do not require prior approval for insurance rate increases.

"There's no question about it, you'll be seeing a ton of insurance companies filing for rate increases now that elections are over," said an industry analyst who asked not to be identified.

Faculty evaluations to begin

Students are once more being given an opportunity to evaluate the BYU faculty.

The survey of student reactions to courses and faculty members will be administered through Dec. 12, according to Dr. Hugh Baird, chairman of the Teacher Development Committee.

Dr. Baird said the survey will be taken for all new faculty members, all who have not been surveyed three times and any other faculty member who has requested it.

"Since this is a significant way teachers may get help," Dr. Baird said, "we urge students to take the process seriously and be completely honest."

Charter available Jan. 3 to Hawaii

Anyone interested in flying from Salt Lake City to Hawaii on Jan. 3 may get a seat for $120.

A performing group called "Showcase Hawaii" from the BYU-Hawaii campus will be touring the mainland during Christmas vacation. According to Rich Hill, business manager for the group, there will be several openings on the return charter flight to Hawaii.

The flight will leave Salt Lake City Airport at 8 a.m. Jan. 3. Any faculty member, staff, student, or friend of the university who is interested should contact the receptionist on the fourth floor of the Wilkinson Center by 5 p.m. Monday.

Philosophy chairman to talk on 'sin'

"Should Sins be Crimes?" will be the topic of the Marketplace Lecture to be held on Nov. 20.

Dr. Noel B. Reynolds, chairman of the Department of Philosophy, will be the speaker. The lecture will be held at 4 p.m. in 184 JKB.

Dr. Reynolds, who received his Ph.D. from Harvard, was Honors Professor of the Year at BYU in 1973. He is a member of the Mont Pelerin Society, an international group of economists, historians and social philosophers who meet regularly to discuss the problems of the preservation of a free society against the totalitarian threat.

Hi Fi defendant's attorney wants jury to sentence client

FARMINGTON, Utah (AP) — The attorney for an arman convicted of murder in the Hi Fi Shop case says he wants the jury, instead of the judge, to decide the penalty because he thinks it will improve chances of successful appeal.

Gilbert Athay, lawyer for Dale S. Pierre, said that the jury-penalty portion of the untested Utah criminal law is unconstitutional. "... and we'll have that to bolster our appeal."

Pierre, 21, Brooklyn, N.Y., and William Andrews, 19, Dallas, Tex., both armen at Hill Air Force Base near Ogden, were found guilty last Saturday of three counts of first-degree murder and two counts of aggravated robbery in the April 22 torture-slayings at the music store. The trial was in Farmington change of venue.

The hearing here Wednesday will be the time a Utah jury decides punishment in first-degree murder case. Under the 1963 Andrews and Pierre have the choice of, the same 11-man, one-woman jury convicted them or the District Court judge, John Wahlquist, decide on life or the death penalty.

John Caine, Andrews' lawyer, said he wants the jury to decide.

IDS hospitals will go to private control in '75

Intermountain Health Care Corporation, the new non-profit organization set up to take over the system of hospitals owned by the LDS Church, is expected to take over operations in April 1975. According to William N. Jones, chairman of the board of trustees for the new corporation, choosing a new president and staff and other preparations will delay the transfer of the nearly $100 million worth of health care facilities "until about the end of the first quarter of 1975."

Jones and other members of the new corporation answered questions in a press conference at Utah Valley Hospital Tuesday.

Dr. Thales H. Smith, a member of the board of trustees of the new corporation explained that the takeover of the hospitals will not mean a jump in prices at Utah Valley Hospital.

"Over the course of time, rates will have to be raised here like in any other segment of the economy, but we do not anticipate any substantial jump because of the take-over," he said.

The transfer of the facilities, totaling 15 hospitals in the intermountain area, will make application for federal funds possible, Smith said.

At present, federal funding has not been available because the hospitals are church owned, he explained.

Regarding the church-hospitals' present policy of not supplying abortion on demand, Jones and Smith indicated that there would probably be no immediate change.

"The board hasn't addressed itself to this problem yet, but my impression is that the policy will be developed by the individual governing boards and knowing the men on those boards I don't foresee any change," Smith said.

However, the trustees did not close the door on the subject completely.

"Attitudes will continue to change as they always have, even under the auspices of the LDS Church ideas evolved," Jones said.

The men also explained the organization of the new corporation.

Provoans will host Y foreign students

This year an estimated 50 BYU foreign students will spend Thanksgiving with Provo families, according to TreVor Christensen, Home Family Program advisor.

The Home Family Program is a five-year-old plan operated by the International Student Organization to make sure there aren't any foreign students "left here alone" while America celebrates.

It gives the student a chance for a closer look at American culture and the host family an opportunity to represent the culture, said Christensen.

The program matches the volunteer families with those students who plan to be here for the holiday.

Christensen noted that at BYU many foreign students go with their roommates for the weekend or with a returned missionary they knew in their country. But there are still those who choose to stay.

Those interested in "adopting" a student for Thanksgiving Day should call the BYU International Student Office, Ext. 2695 or drop by room A235 ASB.

"The Host Family Program is beneficial to the students, the families and the community," said Mrs. J.E. Curtis, Host Family Committee Chairman.

Students help counsel center

Students interested in helping others with educational, vocational and social needs are encouraged to apply for the paraprofessional program before Friday, according to Dr. Michael Maughan, paraprofessional director.

Paraprofessionals are volunteers who work in conjunction with professional counselors in the Personal Development Center. They help students individually, in groups and workshops, and in other special projects such as backpacking trips, explained Maughan.

Applications for positions for the 1975-76 academic year can be made at the Stewart House from 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday.

Those interested must be able to attend training sessions on Thursdays from 2 to 5 p.m. during the coming winter semester. Students in any major field of study or year in school are equally eligible to apply.

Wanted criminal

He was a gentle man...

By SANDY FAWKES
For The Constitution

ATLANTA (AP) — He was fair and handsome, with an immaculate manner of a comfortably rich American. He met in a bar in Atlanta, he had offered to show me the city. After a romantic evening, he suggested we drive to Miami where he was going to see his lawyer and I was to visit friends.

It seemed like a good way to spend a few days and see a bit of America, so I invited him to pick me up at my hotel the following day.

How could I have possibly known that those strange hands, the hands that would carry my suitcases, fasten my seatbelt, catch a mosquito hawk dragon fly in my room and carry it tenderly to freedom, had only three days before strangled and trussed a 15-year-old girl, police said, and reportedly stabbed her father to death, plunging scissors into him 27 times?

Wanted criminal

The man I knew as Darrel Golden was really a wanted criminal.

My spine still cramps with fear when I remember the jokes I made about what a risk I was taking, setting off on a journey with a stranger. Now I feel it was those jokes and my sense of humor that kept me alive. We drove through the autumn countryside of Georgia, keeping a careful eye out for traffic officers.

As we neared Jacksonville, he said he was tired and asked me to drive. While I did so he put his head on my lap and slept. Only later did I discover that he had jumped parole from this section of Florida, and that the car I was hired to drive had been reported stolen four months previously and that the owner has never been seen since. He stayed at West Palm Beach where we arrived, near Miami but not at my hotel. He met me at my hotel's bar for several days. He even drove me in that supposedly stolen car, to an interview I had arranged with U. S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe.

In a bar

I was preparing to return to Loom and had many other friends to see. So I left him in a bar and didn't return his phone calls.

It was at that bar he met some of my friends who liked him and took him back to their hotel for a drink where he stayed that night.

The next day he offered to drive my friend's wife to the hairdresser and on the way attempted to rape her. She escaped.

From then on, the gentle person who had carried my bags as we shopped and had guarded my wallet disappeared. He never took anything from me; it's extraordinary.

I reported his rape attempt to the police immediately, and identified him from a police photograph, since he had been convicted of crimes before.

Roylance finishes job as attorney

MILTON G. HAYCOCK
Universe Staff Writer

weathering trials for 34 years, Arnold Roylance will go free.

Roylance, who is blind, said, "I think 34 years is long enough," when he announced a decision not to seek exoneration to the office of the County Attorney.

However, he said he is not considering retirement. "I'm decided for sure yet. I will be doing, but I'll be idle."

Roylance has a private law office in Provo where he said he will be spending some of his time. During his 34 years in office, Roylance has been involved in court cases. "The cases have been varied and there have been a lot of them," he has fought cases in the Supreme Court and in Federal District Court in Salt Lake City, as well as many cases on a local level.

Roylance's county attorney is the law enforcement officer for the county, according to him. He handles all the criminal cases involving the county attorney is the attorney for the county agencies. He handles cases involving the county commission, welfare, juvenile courts and various county departments.

Roylance said the most common cases during his term in office have been those involving thefts, burglary and larceny. He said some of the murder cases have been the most dramatic and interesting cases he has been involved with.

During the last four or five years, drug cases have really started to multiply. According to Roylance, drugs were not really a problem in Utah County until about 1968.

Roylance doesn't know how many cases his office has been involved with during his term. Last year alone his office filed over 1,500 cases.

Roylance's successor, Noall T. Wootton, has served as a deputy county attorney for the past six years.

Ombudsman

Issues and Answers

Issue: A certified letter from the housing complex that I lived in last year came to my apartment. Someone signed for it but I was not living there at the time and I did not receive it until several weeks later. The letter said I owe the housing complex $100 and action was going to be taken against me if I did not pay them within 30 days. I don't feel I owe them the $100. Last winter I talked to a lawyer through your office and he talked to the housing manager. I hadn't heard from them until this recent letter.

Answer: Our lawyer advises you to answer the subpoena to small claims court, explain your side of the story and allow a judge to make a fair decision.

Issue: I am a dance instructor for BYU. Since there are not adequate facilities for dance use in the Richards PE Building, we must schedule many of our classes in the ELWC. The problem is, we are continually having our classes cancelled for such things as ticket distribution, meetings and anything else that happens to come up. Some of these are necessary and to have classes cancelled once or twice a semester would be OK. But to lose eight classes to things that could probably be scheduled in other places upsets me. Is there anything that can be done about this?

Answer: The Wilkinson Center policy is to provide space for student activities. The center may provide space for classes but priority lies with activities in agreement with the constituted purpose of the Center. This problem should be directed through the P.E. department. Only the P.E. department or University faculty structure can effect a change in this situation.

Issue: I've recently received a card in the mail advising me that I've won one of three prizes described on the card. In order to get my prize, I have to make an appointment to meet with some salesman. Is there anyway I can redeem my prize without sitting through a sales promotion?

Answer: Normally when "prizes" are distributed indiscriminately or en masse, they are meant to be an incentive for you to listen to the sales pitch for a particular product. Although there is not necessarily anything wrong with these sales practices, students should remember that rarely does one get "something for nothing," and should be prepared for a strong selling situation.

For foreign students

Peer counseling begun

By BARZANNE PARK
Universe Staff Writer

Leaving home for the first time is a big change for any student, but this is especially true for foreign students coming to BYU for the first time who must often make complete cultural and language adjustments, according to Arthur Slater, counselor in the Personal Development Center. "Most of the time there is not one to talk to," explained Edda Ordesen, an art major from Santiago, Chile. A program designed to help Latin American students make more satisfying adjustments to college life has been implemented at BYU this semester, according to Slater. A small pilot program which trained six Latin American students in lay counseling launched the idea this summer. The students were each assigned to several new Latin American students this fall and were asked to serve as peer counselors and give assistance in such areas as registration procedures, showing the students the campus and helping them to get acquainted. They also counsel the students with any academic, social or economic problems they may have, referring them to the International Students' Office for further assistance. "We like to encourage students to get involved socially. Close relationships with others often play a big role in how well a student does academically," he explained. "A number of students had expressed feelings of loneliness to me. The program was not requested but many students indicated they would have liked this type of program when they first arrived," explained Slater. An added benefit of the program is that it is designed to give international students experience in leadership and counseling, according to Duane Anersen, director of the International Students' Office. "We attempt to give some of our foreign students experience with counseling and working with groups that they wouldn't receive in the classroom. This should prove very valuable to them when they return home," he said.

Presently students from Mexico, Guatemala, Peru, Brazil and Chile are included in the program. It may eventually be expanded to include all international students, said Slater.

Miss Ordesen, one of the peer counselors, feels the program has been very beneficial for the students and for herself as well. "I can understand more about myself. The same problems the students are having, I have had, too," she said.

Church books poll studies freshmen

More than half of this year's freshmen have read the "Book of Mormon," according to a poll surveying the number of freshmen who have read the Standard Works and two other books, "Jesus the Christ" and "Articles of Faith". Michael Mayer, a Statistics 221 student, directed the poll.

It was issued in Religion 121 classes to a total of 448 students.

Of the six publications, at least one had been read by 67 per cent of those polled. The "Book of Mormon" was most widely read, by over half, while fewer than five per cent had read "Jesus the Christ." Least read of the Standard Works among freshmen was the "Old Testament." A slight 12 per cent had read its entirety. Nearly one-third of the first year students had read the "New Testament." "Jesus the Christ" and "Articles of Faith" are the two among those six books which fewest freshmen had read. The poll shows less than six per cent had read either of them.

Third and fourth on the survey were "Pearl of Great Price" and "Doctrine and Covenants." They were read by 31 and 25 per cent of the freshmen, respectively.

The poll was taken in "Book of Mormon" classes under the direction of Grant Shields, assistant professor of ancient scriptures; and Cleon Skousen, professor of ancient scriptures.

The shortest poem in the Oxford Dictionary of Quotations is on the Antiquity of Microbes and consists of the three words: "Adam, Had 'em."

Spider beetles, of which there are about 12 species in Canada, are the worst insect pests in flour storage warehouses.

Regulation of records proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has sent Congress a compromise bill establishing a federal commission to regulate the distribution of crime records.

The new proposal, sent to the House and Senate by the Justice Department on Monday, also would set criminal penalties for the unauthorized dissemination of intelligence information gathered by federal, state and local law enforcement agencies.

The measure also includes a provision intended to guarantee newsmen and the public continued access to arrest and conviction records.

Law against public smoking stresses non-smoker rights

Posters saying, "Thank you for not smoking in this public place. It's a Utah Law," are to be placed in public places by volunteers from the American Cancer Society's Utah Division.

The posters also quote from the Utah Code, "It is an infraction for any person to smoke cigars, cigarettes, or tobacco in any form in any enclosed public place, except in extra rooms, compartments or coaches specially provided for smoking purposes."

The project is part of a nationwide effort to stress the rights of non-smokers. According to Dr. Jack B. Watkins, president of the Utah Division of the American Cancer Society, recent scientific studies have shown the hazards of "second-hand" cigarette smoke.

The 1972 Surgeon General's report indicated that smoke inhaled by non-smokers can worsen respiratory allergies, lead to complications in pregnancies, irritate lungs and overtax the heart.

The poster campaign is an attempt to educate Utahns to the fact that there is a long-standing law prohibiting smoking in public places. In Provo, a city ordinance was passed recently which allows law enforcement officers to issue a citation for an infraction.

Over 3,000 placards will be posted in public places by volunteers.

Stretching eastward from New Zealand, home of the Maoris, thousands of islands comprise the incredible archipelago called the South Seas.

Jack Regas, called by experts in the field the world's greatest authority on the dances and customs of Polynesia, has brilliantly staged a program that is based on authenticity but further enlivened it with his sense of the theater.

He is the original director of the Polynesian Cultural Center's Extravaganza and Kauai's new hit attraction, "Paradise Pacifica."

As choreographer-stager, televisioners have often seen the Jack Regas credits for the Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour, the Flip Wilson Show, the Jack Benny Hour, the Osmond Brothers, and many others.

The lyrical almost balletic grace of Hawaiian dance, the love songs, the pomp and circumstance of Hawaiian royalty reflect the collective personality of a peace-loving people. Fiji Islanders are noted for their ferocious, often warlike traditions of dance and music.

The folk art of Tonga reflects the spirit of a fun-loving people, but the conch shell and thunderous drumming call the natives to festive events which may include war dances requiring great skill, games and juggling. Add to these the sophistications of French Tahiti and the 'bravery' dances of the men of Samoa and the spectacular fire dances. A spectacular show to be greatly anticipated and never forgotten.

Roman
comedy set for Y

"The Menachmi," a motley of Roman buffoonery will be presented at two performances
Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.
in the Experimental Theater, HFAC. There is no admission fee.

The production is being produced as a special project of a graduate speech and dramatic arts class. The story deals with the comedy of mis-identity with two identical twin brothers who are commonly mistaken for one another. This leads to comical confusion in the Roman Comedy style.

Special attention was given costuming in characterization of the performers. "Since the players will be wearing masks, each is notably dressed in appropriate colors to fit the class description of the time period," said Bay.

The cast consists of Lynn Frost and Joseph Nicholls, who portray the twins,
Menachmus-1 and 2
respectively; the wife of Menachmus-1 is shrewdly portrayed by Brenda Sinclair;
her father is played by Evan Richards.

The remainder of the cast includes Terese Adams, Sharon Powers, Michael Flukiger,
Nanci Landgrebe and Randy
King.

WAC offensive honor given Arizona passer

DENVER (AP)—As Bruce Hill goes, so goes the University of Arizona football team.

The junior quarterback from Los Angeles was the main reason for Arizona's 27-24 victory over Air Force last weekend. And he earned the title of Western Athletic Conference offensive player of the week in voting by coaches in the Denver-based conference.

Kevin McLean, a junior linebacker from Colorado State, was named defensive player of the week Monday.

McLean, who lives in Anaheim, Calif., had 10 unassisted tackles, seven assists, a pass deflection, three tackles for losses and two forced fumbles last weekend. His performance was a key factor in CSU's 56-24 win over Texas-El Paso.

Hill engineered the game-winning 79-yard drive and three winning touchdowns in the final 11 minutes of the game.

Hill completed all five passes he threw during the winning drive. He completed 18 of 28 passes for two touchdowns and 211 yards in the game, in addition to running for 18 yards and a three-yard TD.

Rivals lay in wait of UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All-Americans Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes are gone but Coach John Wooden of UCLA cautions that the Bruins' rivals "shouldn't count us out too quickly."

Wooden, whose 27th season at UCLA opens Friday night against Athletics in Action at Pauley Pavilion, noted that other coaches, such as Southern Cal's Bob Boyd, are extremely optimistic about their chances to dethrone the Bruins as the Pacific-8 Conference basketball champion.

"I know he's exuberant about it," Wooden said of Boyd's remarks. "I remember he felt the same way the year after we lost Kareem, too. We did it right in the two interim years after Kareem."

After Lew Alcindor, later known as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, left UCLA, the Bruins continued to win national championships with Steve Patterson at center. Then came Walton and Wilkes, who led the team to two more national crowns before losing to North Carolina State last spring.

"I think it's true that the Pac-8 is a very well-balanced conference," said Wooden.

"Every coach figures his team is stronger, with the exception of UCLA. When you lose super players like Walton and Wilkes there's no way you can be as strong."

Ralph Drollinger, 7-foot-11 1/2 tall, moves into Walton's center spot and sophomore forward Richard Washington opens at Wilkes' forward position. The No. 1 returning letterman is senior forward Dave Meyers.

Andre McCarter, Pete Trgovich and Jimmy Spillane are the Bruin backcourt men of note with the graduation of Tommy Curtis and Greg Lee.

Marques Johnson, a 6-5 1/2 forward who started some games as a freshman last season, was stricken with hepatitis, which caused Wooden to move Washington to first-string forward and move up 6-11 1/2 freshman Brett Vroman to the No. 2 center spot.

Women's volleyball squad rolls to 4 straight victories

BYU's women's volleyball team scored four decisive wins in weekend play, permitting no more than eight points in any match.

Their first opponents Friday night were the girls from the University of Wyoming. The Cougars played excellent volleyball to overwhelm a strong Wyoming club 15-8, 15-8. In the later Friday match, Colorado State University fell to the Y team 15-3 and 15-0. Coach Michelle Melchior credits the steady play of setter, Kathy White of Long Beach, Calif., and consistent spiking of another southern Californian, Becky Hannah, with the all-around team play of Kelley Jones of Mesa, Ariz. bombed the ball for the first point. From then on Kelley was a spiking power and Captain Malie Ane of Honolulu scrambled and served to score several crucial points throughout the match. With Faelynn Jardine and Denise and Lorette Loo of Hawaii coming out, the Cougars they romped to a 15-4 and 15-3 victory.

The second match of the day was a walk-away with a 15-0, 15-1 win over the University of Colorado. The Boulder team failed to return the powerful serves and spikes of the Cougars.

The four weekend wins gave the Y net a walk-away with a 15-0, 15-1 win over the IATAW (WAC) Regional Championships this weekend. Although the Cougars of Spafford, Ariz. was unable to play this weekend due to illness, her physician released her to play in championships. It took rival Arizona State University of North Colorado earned second in championship followed by Arizona State and then the University of Utah in fourth position. Utah University will play in position with the University of New Mexico in sixth. The two spots will be filled by Idaho State University and the University of Utah. Colorado State College.

BYU will host championships Nov. 22-23. With the first place the Cougars will play the place team in the first round match Friday and 9 a.m. fourth place University of Arizona at 1:30 p.m. and Utah State University at 3:30 p.m. and the Smith Fieldhouse or 1400.

The final rounds will be on Nov. 24-25. The final match will be on Nov. 25 at 9 a.m. played at third place volleyball at 1 p.m. and the fourth place match at 3 p.m. at the Smith Fieldhouse court.

Front teams hold in AP grid rating

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Led by No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, the eight top teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions Tuesday. Oklahoma, which took over the top spot from Ohio State a week ago, trounced Kansas 45-14 and received 45 first-place votes and 1,198 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Alabama remained second by defeating Miami, Fla. 28-7. The Crimson Tide received nine first-place ballots and 1,078 points. Michigan crushed Purdue 51-0 and pulled down eight first-place votes and 1,040 points. Then came Ohio State, a 35-10 winner over Iowa, Notre Dame, which edged Pitt 14-10, Nebraska, which routed Kansas State 35-7; Auburn, a 17-13 victor over Georgia; Southern California, which drubbed Washington 42-11; Texas A&M, a 37-7 winner over Rice, and Penn State, which downed Ohio U. 35-16. Texas A&M and Penn State moved up one spot apiece when Florida, which was ninth last week, lost to Kentucky 41-24 and plummeted to 20th. The Second Ten consists of Maryland, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Michigan State, Houston, Baylor, Texas, Pitt, California and Florida.

Last week's Second Ten was Penn State Miami, Maryland, Houston, Michigan State, N.C. State, Pitt, Oklahoma State, California and Texas Tech. Oklahoma State dropped out following a 37-20 loss to Colorado and Texas Tech fell from the Top Twenty after a 17-10 loss to Baylor. That triumph lifted Baylor into the Top Twenty for the first time since the 1963 season. Texas, which dropped out last week, climbed back in by routing Texas Christian 81-16.

The Top Twenty teams in the AP college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season record and total points follow. Points are tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-etc.

Cats take first place in soccer

BYU's soccer team clinched first place in their league last Saturday and will finish out the season against the Utah All-Stars this Saturday.

The soccer cats took the Northern Division of the newly-formed Mid-South Western Conference by beating Utah State 2-1 in the last minute of the game. The winning goal was scored by freshman Randy Strong, his only goal of the year.

The hard fought game was a grudge match for Utah State. They were beaten by the soccer cats earlier in the year 4-3.

BYU, playing without their starting front line, suffered at the first when the Aggies broke through BYU's defense to take an early lead. BYU was able to tie the score on a penalty kick by Hans Henchen.

In the last minute of the game, BYU left-wing Tony Brady dribbled the ball 30 yards before crossing the ball over to the center of the field in front of the goal box. Freshman Strong kicked a line drive past the Aggie goalie for the winning score.

The soccer team had its best season with a 12-2 record. BYU scored 68 goals while letting only 20 goals past the Cougar goalie.

Tonight the soccer team has a non-conference game against Pan World of Salt Lake City and a final match of the year against the Utah All-Star team Saturday. The games will be at Haws Field and are open to the public. Hot chocolate will be served to the spectators.

Good with this coupon Oct. 20 & 21, Wednesday and Thursday only.

U.S. ski team to vie for 'Cup'

NEW YORK (AP) — A team of six women and seven men selected by the U.S. Alpine Ski Team national coaching staff, leaves for Europe Friday to represent the United States in World Cup competition beginning Dec. 4-7 in Val d'Isere France, Team Director Hank Tauber said Tuesday.

"The girls in particular should be quite competitive," said Tauber. "The men will be starting from lower seeds so emphasis will be on improving their International Skiing Federation point standings. They are confident that they will earn better starting positions so that they will have a chance to win later in the season."

The women on the U.S. team are Cindy Nelson, 19, of Lutzen, Minn.; Lindy Cochran, 21, of Richmond, Va., a member of the noted Cochran Olympic skiing family; Leslie Leete Smith, 16, of Killington, Vt.; Becky Dorney, 18, of Wintham, Mass.; Susie Patterson, 19, of Sun Valley, Idaho; and Kim Mumford, 19, of Putney, Vt.

"Cindy Nelson, who is ranked fifth in the world in downhill and is also in the first seed in slalom, is more ready than ever to challenge the best in the world," said head women's coach Lane Monroe. The U.S. men, coached by Hanspeter Rohr, are Cary Abgate, 21, of Boyle City, Mich.; Geoff Bruce, 21, of Corning, N.Y.; Greg Jones, 20, of Tahoe City, Calif.; Karl Anderson, 21, of Greene, Maine; Ron Biedermann, 22, of Stowe, Vt.; David Turner, 22, of Madison, N.H.; and Andy Mill, 21, of Aspen, Colo.

Ticket distribution on first-come basis

Ticket distribution for half of the home basketball games will be exclusively first-come, first-served.

Eight of the 16 home games this year will be during Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations. All the tickets for these games will be distributed first-come, first-served, said Doug Green, ASBYU vice president of athletics.

"During these vacation game tickets will be distributed at the east side of the Marriott Center beginning at 4:30 p.m. on the day of the game," said Green. They will begin with the first game of the year against Texas on Nov. 29, he added.

Ticket distribution for the rest of the games will include first-come, first-served; random seating and rotating block seating.

According to Green, 1500 of the best seats below the concourse will be distributed at the Marriott Center on the day of the game, first-come, first-served.

On Wednesday, the week before the game, students can sign up for random seating at the ELWC cloak room from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Five hundred tickets will be reserved for random seating, said Green.

Block seating for basketball will be handled the same way as for football, explained Green. Block seating lists must be turned in to the receptionist on the ELWC fourth floor by 5 p.m. on the Monday before the game. Tickets will be picked up on Tuesday for a Friday game and Thursday for a Saturday game.
